"BEST BABY TOWN" MAY BE NEW SLOGAN

Press Overwhelmed With Enthusiastic Response to Challenge to Prove the "Bestness" of the Coming Moulders of Destiny Thereabouts

By Gertrude Gibbs

More than thirty entries for the baby contest came in Saturday and this morning they reached 50. The editor is beginning to wonder whether they will increase like the velocity of falling bodies—as the square of the distance, or like the chain letters that used to bother postoffice officials a few years ago.

We hope it will turn out something like that because it would be great for Glendale to be advertised all over the country as "Best Baby Town" as well as the fastest growing cit.

Manager Thomas D. Watson is looking ahead and considering whether it would not be well to have a conference with Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson and see whether he will give a wholesale rate on postoffice boxes to hold the entries or whether he would like to add anothe rpostman to the staff to be known as "Mr. Stork." Something will have to be done and D. Ripley can be depended upon to do the right thing, for he has babies himself, though they are too old for this contest. He has a soft heart ustj the same for other people's babies and is glad to boost the contest and incidentally the stamp sales of the office, all he can.

Some of the greatest baby fans in the city have none of their own, but they are glad to promote the contest just the same. There is Arthur Dibbern, for example, in whose house there is no baby crib. He has asked the privilege of giving as the fifth prize a $20 baby's ring set with a diamond. John Fanset is another who is hugely interested and who will probably be heard from in connection with the contest. The list of prizes that will supplement the grand prizes of $100 in cash to be given by the Press, $100 in merchandise to be given by Pendroy's Store, at present stands as follows:

Third prize—$35 baby carriage, by Page Furniture company.

Fourth prize—$25 child's bed, by Trice Furniture company.

Fifth prize—$20 baby's ring set with diamond, Arthur Dibbern, jeweler.

The best advertisement of his creamery that Smith MacMullin has, is his little 19-month-old son, Richard Lyon MacMullin, a darling blue-eyed boy with fair hair, who is unusually large for his age and who has never been ill. He began to walk at 13 months. His mother makes no special claims for him, saying he is "just a good, healthy baby," but when pressed for the cause of his fine physique and good temper, says she has trained him to regular hours of sleep, and has made it a point to have him regularly and properly fed. To this she attributes the fact that he has all his teeth and did not suffer in getting them. This has been a great advantage to her as well as the baby, she says, because she always knows when he will be asleep and how to plan her own program.

Pearl Ernestine Van Tassel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Van Tassell of 110 North Cedar, is another good baby, always smiling and not afraid to go to any one She is but seven months old, but already shows good judgment. When she hurt her arm she had the same not to try to use it until it was well again, though she did not complain. She weighs 21 pounds and is perfectly well.

Henry Fosberg, Jr., 18 months old, is another blond. He also is large of his age, weighing 25 pounds. He is good natured and resourceful, amusing himself with his toys without bothering any one to entertain him.

Annette MacDonald, who will be seven months old the 21st of next month, and who lives at 445 West Harvard, has had rare good fortune. She has never had the colic and has never once required her parents to be up with her at night. She always comes "smilin' through," but has a mind of her own and calls for her dinner on time or wants to know the reason why. Her proud mother boasts that she has never even had a cold. Her ancestry, is all right as on her mother's side of the house she is Massachusetts Yankee, and on her father's, Scotch.

COAL INDUSTRY PROBE BILL DRAWN

Legislation Demanded by the President is Prepared

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—A bill authorizing full investigation of the coal industry as demanded in President Harding's message to congress, was drawn up by Representative Winslow, chairman of the house interstate commerce commission after a conference with the president, today.

The bill provides for appointment of from five to nine members of the commission by the president.

The commission would be authorized to analyze every phase of the coal industry and submit a report to the house by January 1.

SEARCH OCEAN FOR SEAPLANES

KEYPORT, N. J., Aug. 21.—A fleet of seaplanes roared away from the hangars of the Aero Marine Airways, Inc., today, and sweeping low over the surface of the Atlantic and lower New York bay, began searching for a sightseeing plane carrying one passenger and two mechanicians, missing 24 hours.

It is feared that if the plane has been forced to descend on the water, those aboard will be found dead, even if the machine itself is located, as high seas have prevailed all during the period the craft has been missing.

The identity of the passenger had not been learned this morning. A wealthy man, it is understood, chartered the seaplane for a trip to Fire island, off New York. With Pilot Miller and Mechanician Thompson, he set sail from the company's station at 7 a. m. Sunday.

The last seen of the plane was when it passed over the Battery, the lower end of Manhattan island, at a high rate of speed.

SHIP AFIRE OFF ATLANTIC COAST

NORFOL, Va., Aug. 21.—The shipping board steamer Lake Strymon is afire 25 miles northeast of Frying Pan lightship, off the North Carolina coast, according to a radio received here today.

The crew is fighting fiercely to control the flames, which have consumed a portion of the cargo and are threatening the ship.

Two coast guard cutters and a shipping board steamer are rushing to the scene.

World Is Filled With Problems and Will Be Until End of Time

This world is full of problems. They must be met to the best of our ability and as soon as that is completed there are still more problems to be solved, and there always will be as long as the world exists. This is the substance of James W. Foley's Listening Post this evening in which he says that "problems are as necessary as breathing and food and drink.

Henry James, this evening, makes the comment that this will be a pleasanter world when there are more thinkers inhabiting it. Besides this interesting comment along these lines, he speaks of foolhardy aviators who do not benefit the world with their crazy stunts, but states that the real benefactors in developing the science of flying are the serious-minded men.

Both Dr. Frank Crane and John Pilgrim have interesting contributions as usual this evening, while the editorial column contains much of information on world affairs including politics.

To complete the editorial page of this paper there is a lesson in English, poetry, scientific articles, eastern point of view and a mighty interesting article on the stars.

Murphy and gave his address as La Canada. His cmopanion said that her name was Anna Lazandie and her address is 1200 McCadden place, Hollywood.

The cause of the accident is not known. Hollywood police were notified of the affair and told that the bridge is broken. The bridge is in Hollywood.

LIFESAVING TO BE SHOWN TONIGHT

Scouts to Be Given Lesson in Reviving Drowning Victims

H. F. Benner, scout executive for the Verdugo Hills district, Boy Scouts of America, and Fred H. Killick, swimmer, traveler and lecturer, and six scouts spent this morning at the municipal swimming pool in Patterson park, rehearsing the demonstration to be given there tonight.

They rehearsed the simple aids in rescuing drowning persons who are either struggling or passive.

One of the big features of the demonstration will be the bringing ashore of six people who have been wrecked. This will be accomplished by one man. This morning the boys and Mr. Killick rehearsed this feat. They demonstrated that one man can take a line to six people in the water and pull them from one to two hundred yards, with the aid of a life guard on the shore.

ONE DROWNED IN AUTO TRAGEDY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—Mrs. C. D. Whiting of Independence, Mo., was dead from drowning, and C. D. Whiting, her husband, and E. F. Jones and wife of Reno, Nev., were in hospitals today, recovering from slight injuries and exhaustion, as a result of their automobile plunging into the bay from a Martinez-Bianca ferryboat late yesterday.

RAIL STRIKE THREATENS FARMERS WITH CALAMITY BORAH WIRES EXECUTIVES

Unless It Ends in Twenty Days, Agriculture of the Nation Will Be Involved in Widespread Losses, He Declares in Telegrams

URGES SETTLEMENT ON DE WITT CUYLER

Railway Officials Adopt Conciliatory Attitude in View of the Rapid Deterioration of Railroad Equipment, It Is Reported

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Unless the railroad strike is settled within 20 days, farmers of the nation will suffer "serious and widespread loss," because of inability to obtain cars to transport farm products, Senator Borah, Idaho, today wired T. De Witt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives.

Declaring "the situation is fast becoming intolerable," Borah expressed hope that a "speedy settlement of the strike can be reached when negotiations are renewed between striking shopmen and executives on Wednesday."

Borah, chairman of the senate labor committee, sent the telegram to Cuyler, following a long conference with Bert M. Jewell, head of the striking shopmen, and William Johnston, chief of the machinists.

A rapidly growing deterioration in railroad equipment, threatennig paralysis of transportation, is causing leading rail executives who wanted a "fight to the finish" in the shopmen's strike, to adopt a more conciliatory attitude, according to information to government officials.

This is one of the main facts underlying the hope in administration circles that a settlement of the strike will soon be reached.

Rail executives realize that to win the present controversy they must ward off a serious breakdown in transportation. A big blow was dealt to their efforts to keep the crippled systems in operation with strikebreakers when the interstate commerce commission, with the approval of President Harding, announced that the laws by which agents of the commission can order defective equipment out of use would be strictly enforced. There is no appeal from orders of the commission banning the use of such equipment.

The report which the interstate commerce commission soon will make to congress in response to a senate resolution, will show more than half of the 70,000 locomotives of the country are now defective, due to the strike. This has caused the cancellation of many trains, delays to others and the refusal of many big four brotherhood members to man the engines.

BOXING SHOW AT WOODMAN HALL WEDNESDAY

Card Is Arranged With Local Boxers in Contests

The Glendale lodge of Modern woodmen of America will stage their second boxing exhibition on Wednesday night. An excellent card has been framed, and from the looks of the entrants and their home towns it will be a debate between Burbank and Glendale. One of the main eventers and one-half of the card for the semi-windup come from Burbank, as do two of the prelim boys. Oh, well, a fight is a fight.

Ralph Meyers and Howard Kendig are billed for the main event. This is the fight scheduled for the first Woodmen show, and was postponed because of Kendig's illness.

Meyers has been training for this event, and feels sure that he can give Kendig a boxing lesson.

Ralph's big brother, Johnny, is billed to meet a tough bird in the semi-windup. This tough bird admits he is so hard he aches. His name is Arizona Wildcat. Oh, yes, he is living in Burbank right now. There is a story told of a wildcat who went out to see the wide world. He told everyone what a wildcat he was. When he came home he admitted that he was just a darned tame kitty. You know what I mean. Johnny is a good boy and wins nearly all of his fights.

Rex Hampden, of Burbank, is to meet "Kid" Essex, of Glendale. Editorial comment is not permitted, but every man has his own ideas.

"Burbank" King is coming to Glendale on Wednesday night to put on the gloves with Bill Dunson of Inglewood.

Walter Dodge and "Chick" Watson, both of Glendale, will round out the card.

UNITED SPANISH WAR VETERANS CONVENE

Addresses by civic authorities and leaders of the veterans' organziation were scheduled.

The reunion officially started last night with camp fire services.

MERCHANST' TEAM SWING GAME BATS

Lynwood Team Stages Eighth Inning Rally Without Success

A two-run lead and an eight-run rally in the seventh inning was not enough for the Lynwood baseball team to win yesterday's pastiming from the Glendale Merchants. The final score was 14 to 12 in favor of the locals.

As far as the game was concerned, the Merchants figured it as batting practice. They knocked Ogler, who hurled for the visitors, all over the lot when the bating rally started.

Aageson pitched for the Merchants and struck out eight men before the seventh frame, when he was relieved by Harris. Harris sent two of the visiting batsmen back to the bench over the "whiff" route. The Merchants traded 18 hits off the Lynwoods for 10 to the visitors.

Griffin let his light so shine after he went to bat that out of six times up at the pan he got four hits.

Jensen faced the pitcher four times and took him for four safe hits. He also made two putouts from the field.

President Weinreicht of the Greater Southern California Baseball Managers' association was present at the game.

hTings looked all to the bad for the locals in the seventh frame, when the visitors knocked the horsehide for eight runs. Harris was sent in to the box in that inning to "do his stuff" and turned the tide.

The score by innings:

Lynwood	1	1	0	1	1	0	8	0	0	—12
Merchants	0	0	2	4	3	1	2	2	*	—14

CARRY GLENDALE PRESS POLICY TO HUNT

Dr. C. R. Lusby and H. A. Wilson are going deer hunting next Monday. They are going into the wilds near Independence and Bishop and plan to be gone a week. Mr. Wilson says he feels very secure because he carries an accident policy in connection with his subscription of the Glendale Press. He values it highly because he has occasion to take many auto trips in which there is a chance of mishap. Friday he is to motor to Fresno to bring back Mrs. Wilson, who has been visiting there.

Course of True Love Hits Red Tape in Basle

BASLE, Switzerland, Aug. 21.—Red tape of the Swiss government prevented Max Oser from obtaining a license to wed Mathilde McCormick, John D. Rockfeller's granddaughter, last Saturday, it became known here today.

Oser, captain in the Swiss army and former keeper of a livery stable at Zurich, was turned down by officials when he applied at the marriage license bureau, upon a technicality which can easily be obviated, it was said. It was expected that the groom would renew his efforts this week.

According to Swiss law, public notice of a proposed marriage must be given a fortnight before it occurs.

Since it is the legal residence of Oser, it is expected that the banns will be posted here.

POSTMASTER VISITS HIS HINDERLAND

D. Ripley Jackson Inspects Rural Routes Being Reorganized

WANT CITY'S SERVICE

Tours Canyon Districts With Officials From Los Angeles

Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, Inspector Hare of Los Angeles and Assistant Postmaster Hallett have had some strenuous touring the past week inspecting rural routes three of which are being reorganized and one new one established in the Grand View district.

Today the postmaster begged off, pleading other business. He says it is equal to an exploring expedition, and those hot days he felt like Stanley in Africa. He did not know before there were so many little settlements and neighborhood groups tucked away in canyons he had never heard of. The roads to many of these places are awful combinations of stones and ruts, and the carriers earn all the money they get visiting them.

The postoffice department is determined to give them the best possible service, and so these inspections are being made to see how the routes can be extended to reach more people, or how the mail can be brought nearer to those already served, by some change of route.

This rural route territory takes in Tujunga, Sunland, La Crescenta, La Canada and Woodland, besides Grand View, and Flintridge, which has been served from Los Angeles, is petitioning to be annexed to the Glendale office, believing that they will have more satisfactory service and be in closer touch with the powers that be so far as their local mail is concerned.

The rural carriers all use autos now, and, in a small degree, they are like a traveling postoffice, carrying a limited number of stamps and postal cards, and scales for weighing post packages.

THURSDAY CLUB PROGRAM AIDS FUND

Receipts From Movie Show Swell Treasury for Clubhouse

The building fund of the Thursday Afternoon club was materially increased on Saturday evening when they put on a splendid program at the Yeoman hall on South San Fernando road. Mrs. E. V. Bacon was in charge.

The program consisted of the moving picture comedy, "Keeping Up With Lizzie," followed by a musical program given by the pupils from the Emerson school of Self Expression, through the courtesy of its manager, Mrs. Evelyn Labadie.

The first number was a monologue entitled "Jack Tends the Baby," and an encore in the form of a pianologue, "You've Got to Quit Kickin' My Dog Around." These were very nicely given by Bill Rhodes. "Small Boy Troubles" and an encore, "Five of Us at a Party," were given by Jim Rhoades and were most amusing. Evelyn Peebles gave a clever recitation entitled "Bill Smith." Between numbers, small children sold popcorn and candy which helped swell the fund. There were about 150 present.

Anna Berman and Joan Fairfield acted as ushers and they also sold popcorn and candy. Both of these young ladies did very well in selling tickets, too, before the entertainment was put on.

BURGLARS JIMMY WINDOWS AND RAID GLENDALE HOMES ON SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

Reports of Operations Are Still Coming Into the Police Headquarters From Citizens Who Spent Week-ends at Resorts

FOUR HOMES REPORT ON VISITS BY THIEVES

It Is Believed to Be the Same Gang that Cleaned Up Stores in Tujunga and Sunland District During Last Week and Escaped Undetected

Burglars raided Glendale Saturday and Sunday nights, entering five homes and securing loot that is valued at many hundred dollars. An exact valuation could not be placed on the loot this morning. The detectives had not completed their investigation of items taken from the various homes. It is known that jewels and clothing valued at more than $200 were taken from one home.

From the methods used in entering the houses it is the belief of the police that all the jobs were done by the same thief or thieves. Entrance was in every case gained through jimmying a window.

Police are working in an attempt to connect the robberies of the Glendale homes on Saturday and Sunday nights with the recent raid on homes and stores in Tujunga and neighboring towns. Thieves worked through that territory several nights ago, securing merchandise and other articles valued at several hundred dollars.

The first robbery reported to the police on Sunday night was at 7 p. m. W. E. Seidel, 1233 Viola street, reported that the home of H. N. Lennox, 231 Loraine street, had been robbed some time Saturday night. The thieves entered through a rear window that had been jimmied. A list of articles stolen will be furnished the police.

At 9:15 p. m., G. T. Velzy, 242 North Eastlake avenue, Los Angeles, reported to the Glendale police that the home of Dr. Holland, 614 Geneva street, had been robbed on Sunday evening.

Patrolmen Booth and Hines were detailed to investigate the robbery. They reported that the thieves had gained entrance through a rear window that had been jimmied open. A complete list of loot secured will be given the police as soon as the property in the house can be checked.

The home of J. R. Bentley, 1361 North Columbus street, was entered by the jimmy burglars and robbed early Saturday night. The robbery was reported at 7:55 p. m. Officer Booth, who investigated this report, said that entrance had been gained through a front window. Jewelry and clothing valued at more than $200 were stolen from the Bentley home.

Apparently the same thieves who robbed the Bentley home attempted to rob the home of J. V. Baldwin, 1313 North Columbus. They were frightened away before they secured any loot. Detective Sergeants Stein and Royle are investigating this and the other robberies.

HUGO KIRCHOFER TO LEAD JONES MEETING TONIGHT

Community Sing to Feature Candidate's Return

Those who are planning to attend the rally at the high schoot tonight in the Jones-for-Governor campaign, when Mr. Jones will be a speaker, are asked to bring their community song books that they may join in the community singing which will be led by Hugo Kirchofer of Hollywood, who led the community chorus here two years ago.

"We all boosted Glendale to the queen's taste," said Mattison B. Jones, who has just returned from a week spent in northern California, where he addressed on the average of four meetings each day.

Mr. Jones addressed open air meetings every night and all of the assemblies to which he spoke durig the day, except two, were held out-of-doors. Mayor Spencer Robinson and Edwin Albright sang and played at the majority of the meetings.

A week before last Mr. Jones entered the state and American bar associations in San Francisco and on Thursday last he and his party visited San Jose, San Mateo, Palo Alto, and around the eastern side of the bay.

On Friday he started at Vallejo, went to the Napa valley, ending at Calistoga at night. Here he addressed the American Legion and other citizens of that community.

Mr. Jones and his party went through Sonoma county on Friday, speaking at Healdsburg, Petaluma, and coming back through San Raphael to San Francisco.

On Sunday they left San Francisco for Woodlands, where they spent the night. Mayor Robinson and Mr. Albright played at two of the churches in Woodlands, and Mr. Jones was presented at both of them, giving a brief talk at one.

Last week's tour was begun at Woodlands on Monday morning. During the day they worked through Colusa, Willows, and made Chico at night.

On Tuesday Biggs, Gridley, Marysville, and Sacramento were visited, while Wednesday saw Elks' Grove, Galt, Lodi and Stockton covered. Sacramento and Stockton were chosen for the night speeches.

Fresno was visited on Thursday night, while meetings were held at Modesto. Purlock, Merced, and Madera during the day. On Friday Selma, Hanford, Tulare and Visalia were on the list.

Saturday the end of the trip saws visits to Exeter, Lindsay, Portersville, and Bakersfield on Saturday night.

"We had wonderful success in our metings, speaking to many thousands," said Mr. Jones this morning. "I have absolutely no question in my mind but what I will be nominated over my opponent by a big majority. I believe this to be true in both northern and southern California."

Mr. Jones spoke at Pasadena high school at noon today, at El Monte at 3, and will address a meeting here this evening at the high school.

Postmaster Jackson says that mail arrivals are almost normal now, but he expects to have considerable congestion when some of the mail which has been sidetracked gets through. There is considerable congestion on account of the large amount of political mail now going through the office.

CHEER UP, SAYS REV. D. FUNK IN SERMON

Whine in the Woods, If You Must, Not in Public

"The woeful face is selfish," the Rev. H. C. Funk indicated yesterday in his sermon at the First Lutheran church.

"The fact is that the hopeful spirit is largely the result of education. And this is assuredly one of the most beneficent influences of our holy religion, giving light and life and hope and immortality, for 'we are saved by hope.'

"A colored man, while hunting in a cornfield, pulled up his gun and fired at a bunny. A neighbor passing along called out, 'Did you get him, Uncle?' The reply was, 'No, massah, but I'll get him the next time.' A crude illustration of the philosophy of hope.

"But, cheer up! I know that you have your difficulties, like the rest of us. Although the road may be rough and rugged, remember that we have no right to carry a great, long, woebegone face around with us, making everybody else miserable, just because we feel that way. If you are determined to whine and growl, betake yourself to the woods or to some lonely spot where you will not exert a baneful influence over others.

"Most of your troubles are imaginary, and, if you have real ones, the best thing you can do is to keep sweet and make the best of it. It is foolish to borrow trouble and pay a high rate of interest in addition. Indeed, the difficulty with many of us is that we are too self-centered. Move out of self into Christ, and let Him have His way.

"In times of great difficulties, or even in the face of disaster, let hope assert her sway and it is wonderful how wireless messages seem to go out with subduing and compelling power. And to the brave, patient soul, the worst oftentimes turns out to be a blessing in disguise. Ah, yes, more valuable than piles of silver or of gold is the asset of a hopeful heart. Let us find these hopeful chords and strike them with a certain sound. Then shall the air be filled with sweetest melody, and every difficulty will disappear like some receding storm.

REQUEST PROGRAM BY NEWTON CO. TONIGHT

O. W. Andresen, Edward Moniot and Mrs. Jones to Give Numbers

O. W. Andresen, baritone, is returning tonight to entertain the many radio fans who have heard him before and the many who have not as yet heard him. Mr. Andresen has a wonderful voice of full, rich quality, which, coupled with his perfect articulation, offers a real treat worth listening to. He is a member of the Orpheus club of Los Angeles, and also sings for the Gamut club. Although a number of downtown stations have endeavored to obtain his services, so far KFAC is the only station which has reproduced his voice.

Edward Moniot, who was scheduled to tickle the ole banjo last Friday but who was unavoidably detained, will play tonight instead, and will play several numbers which have been requested by enthusiastic fans. He will be accompanied at the piano by Miss Marion Jones. Both are official members of the KFAC orchestra, which is winning such high praise in Los Angeles and all surrounding communities.

Miss Marion Jones will also favor radioland with a couple of real piano selections, and, as one of the Press reporters states, "Miss Jones sure does knock the keys for a row of harmonies."

There will be one other addition to the program which is not decided upon as yet, but will, no doubt, be either a soprano soloist or a tenor soloist. All numbers this evening will be requested numbers which have been mailed in to the radio department, and cannot be announced until this evening, as the artists are rehearsing the various selections from which they will make their choice before evening. The program begins at 7 p. m.

YEOMEN PICNIC AT THE BEACHES

PLANS SET AND UPSET TOLD BY TINNING

Asst. Pastor of Presbyterian Church Preaches Interesting Sermon

Rev. Louis Tinning, assistant pastor, presided at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning in the absence of the pastor on vacation A resume follows:

Always it is of interest to note the attitude of a newly saved soul. Thus we observe now one of the keenest minds that ever lived. Saul of Tarsus, on the road to seize Christ's followers in Damascus, met Christ. There was an instant transformation, and he cried, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" His set plans and purposes in a moment were upset, and from his innermost soul he sought Christ's plans and purposes, and he became Paul. After that he never faltered; he recognized immediately what was the highest work, and never looked back to the old.

It is well for people to receive such a jolt that they forget the old and grasp the new. When God comes in His new purpose must be first. The highest work given to mortal man is that of saving souls. There was but one Savior; he now goes only in the persons of His disciples, and He is depending on them.

What is the real test of the value of our work? Is it bank account, fine home or clothes? No! Look in the word to find it: "Ye shall know them by their fruits." The foliage and the lovely spring bloom are not enough; it is the fruit. It is the ingathering of precious souls that is the test. Not only the minister is responsible. "There was a man sent from God, whose name was——" any of our names. We must be sent men and women.

Not so long ago all the young men were drafted. Notwithstanding the sorrow, the going was with pride. But for the few who tried to evade we coined the new word, "slacker." What is one who evades duty for Christ but a slacker? One says: "I have no place in the work of the kingdom." Usefulness of a machine depends on every single one of its parts. Suppose I try driving down town with a part of my car lacking. Oh for people who cry, "Lord, use me!"

A young man returning from the war said, "Things don't look the same to me now. In the churches I feel a note missing. Out there on the front line, if a wounded buddy were left, everyone wanted to go to the rescue,—'Let's go get him!' I've been listening in vain to hear this note."

Are we ready to let God upset and remake our lives? "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?"

EXCHANGE CLUB FOLKS GUESTS OF HARROWERS

Santa Monica Is Gathering Point of Members and Families

"Sandy Nook," the new beach cottage of Dr. and Mrs. Henry R. Harrower, was the scene of a jolly outing Sunday, when Dr. Harrower entertained the members and families of the Glendale National Exchange club, at Santa Monica. Mrs. Harrower was unable to be present, as she is spending the summer in Yosemite.

This new beach home is very well named, for both the back and front yards are of sand only. It is well situated, having a 60-foot frontage on the ocean, and Ocean boulevard being an alley at the rear. The cottage consists of eight rooms—six bedrooms and two shower baths. There is a large room across the front which contains a large, open fireplace, and the interior is finished with eucalyptus logs serving as rafters. The entire cottage is up-to-date in every respect, even to the instantaneous water heater and electric hair dryers. Dr. Harrower feels quite fortunate in being able to secure this wonderful location, as such locations are very limited on Santa Monica beach.

Dr. Harrower states that while he has built this home for his own use, he also says it is for the use of his friends as well, and especially the employes of the Harrower laboratory. This was demonstrated in the manner in which he entertained the guests yesterday.

The Exchange club members and their families took their lunch, and ice cream was furnished by the host.

In welcoming the guests, Dr. Harrower called their attention to a framed motto on the wall, which read, "If You Would Have a Friend, Be One," and all present thought that he was really and truly their friend for having invited them to be present on this occasion.

After partaking of the sumptuous luncheon at 1 o'clock, those who cared to took a dip in the surf, and some of the men engaged in playing indoor baseball on an outdoor field on the water's edge. There were also races for the kiddies, girls and men, all of which were much enjoyed.

During the afternoon, singing of popular songs was enjoyed, accompanied by the pianola. Following the contests and races, Captain Jackson appointed five judges, selected from those who had not been in the surf, to determine who was the most beautiful, and the youngest lady swimmers. Mrs. J. B. Mackie was acclaimed the most beautiful, and little Barbara Howarth the youngest.

Those who enjoyed this delightful day were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. McConnell, Captain and Mrs. D. Ripley Jackson and daughter, Grace Anna, and son, Kenneth R. Jackson, Miss Ruth Waterman, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. A. Howarth and daughters, Ruth and Barbara, W. H. Block, Miss Ethel Mondon, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hoyt and daughter, Lucile, and son, Edwin, Mr. and Mrs. Ed N. Radke and son, Edwin, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sutton and sons, Robert and Walter, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Waring and daughter, Miss Mabel Waring, Mr. and Mrs. George H. King and son, James Goode and daughters, Audrey Jean and Mabel Teresa, E. J. Smith, Herman Psenner, Arthur Sherborne, George B. White, Mrs. C. L. Cyphers; Mr. and Mrs. Clemen Hamer, Mrs. J. B. Mackie, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Heisser and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Whitaker and family, Dr. and Mrs. Jas. A. Belyea, Mr. and Mrs. W. Q. Widdows and sons, Worth and Maurice, and the host, Dr. Henry R. Harrower and daughter, Miss Verna Harrower.

LINEBERGER TELLS HOW JOHNSON FAILED

Famous Letter Arraigns Senator as No Longer Representative

The following is the now famous letter of Congressman W. F. Lineberger condemning Senator Hiram W. Johnson. It was written at Washington, D. C., on March 19, 1922, and addressed to J. J. Pennegar, manager of the Long Beach Telegram:

"Several friends have very kindly called my attention to the article in the Daily Telegram of Sunday, March 19, which suggests that I become a candidate for the United States senate, and I would not be human did I not appreciate most profoundly the good will which inspired the writer as well as those of my friends, who, with friendly comment, have mailed the clipping to me.

"At the outset, let me say that I am not a candidate for the senate, nor do I expect to become one unless the good people of California should deem my entrance into the field necessary to accomplish an end to which so many Californians have consecrated themselves.

"In common with them I feel that Senator Johnson no longer represents the ideals, hopes and aspirations of the manhood and womanhood of California and this nation, and that his defeat in the forthcoming primaries is necessary if our people are to be given a full opportunity to express themselves in the senate.

Responding to a universal wish for lasting peace among peoples of the earth, President Harding brought together the leading naval powers of the world, in conference in Washington, and at that conference the United States, England, France, Italy, Japan and several lesser nations entered into solemn agreements to effect a limitation of armaments, which has already been the means of saving to the tax-burdened people of America several hundreds of millions of dollars. . . .

"In my speech on the limitation of armaments, delivered in the house of representatives on June 22, 1921, I tried to help pave the way for the great program which the President was then formulating and which has since come to such a happy fruition in the passage of the treaties agreed to in the Washington conference on the limitation of armament.

"Strange as it may appear, Senator Hiram Johnson, who would have us think that his every thought and heart throb is for the common people, as consistently fought against ratifying the splendid work of the conference, and there are those in Washington who think that his course has been dictated by a feeling of envy and rancor against Mr. Harding, who defeated him for the nomination for President at the Chicago convention in 1920. Be that as it may, suffice it to say that Mr. Johnson no longer represents the sentiments of the people of California and of the nation. His inexplicable course demonstrates beyond peradventure that he would place his own pride of opinion above the hopes and aspirations of the great masses, who in the last analysis, bear the brunt of all conflicts. The pleas of the people who have but recently emerged from one of the greatest of all wars, touches him not at all, and I am convinced that the people of California feel that the time has come to replace him with a man who is in thorough sympathy with the lofty ideals of President Harding—one who will actively help to bring these ideals, hopes and aspirations into full fruition through the coming years.

"To that end you may confidently count upon me to the utmost, no matter what position I hold.

"Very sincely yours,
"W. F. LINEBERGER."

WAR VETERANS' LEAGUE ATTACKS MILLAN

Resolutions Adopted by Advisory Committee Reflect on Record

The following communication has been received from the War Veterans' league advisory committee, signed by the secretary of the committee and of the organization. It reflects upon the war record literature of John T. Millan, candidate for state treasurer. To All Editors: The following resolution was unanimously passed by the advisory committee of the War Veterans' league. We ask that you, as a citizen and an editor interested in the sacred traditions of our country, give this matter publicity.

Resolution

Whereas, it appears that John T. Millan, candidate for the republican nomination for state treasurer, or the campaign committee of John T. Millan, has caused to be circulated throughout the state of California, pamphlets, upon which appears pictures of John T. Millan, on crutches, and

Whereas, there further appears on these pamphlets, the words:

"Veteran of the Spanish American War. Honorary member Disabled Veterans of World War." and

Whereas, the pamphlets further state:

"During the Spanish American war, he incurred a disability in the line of duty, which to this day necessitates his getting about on crutches." and

Whereas, he or his campaign committee has caused to be published and circulated, postal cards upon which appear his picture on crutches, and further appears on these postal cards the words:

"P. S. Jack was permanently disabled during the Spanish American war," and

Whereas, John T. Millan or his campaign committee has caused to be published in the newspapers of California, statements and articles which claim he is a wounded veteran of the Spanish American war, and further claims that he is a disabled veteran of the World war, and

Whereas, there have appeared upon the highways and roads of the state of California, placards upon which he is shown on crutches, it appears beyond a reasonable doubt that he is attempting to secure the support of the voters and people of California on the grounds that he is a crippled veteran of the Spanish American war, or a wounded veteran of the Spanish American war, and

Whereas, it appears from the records of the navy department of the United States, substantiated in a satisfactory manner, that John T. Millan did not enlist in the United States navy until twenty-two months after peace was declared with Spain; that he is attempting to obtain the support and the votes of the people of California by misleading, vicious and false propaganda.

Now therefore, be it resolved, that the War Veterans league of California do hereby condemn John T. Millan of San Diego for his action, and call upon all patriotic societies, newspapers and publications in the state to make public the true facts, in order that the honor and integrity of the ex-service man may not be jeapardized by permitting a candidate for an important and honorable position, to be elected upon a false record, and

Be it further resolved, that copies of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of this meeting, and

Be it further resolved, that copies of these minutes be forwarded to each and every patriotic society, newspaper and periodical in the state of California, and

Be it further resolved, that the secretary be instructed to forward copy of these resolutions to John T. Millan of San Diego.

(Signed) BERT H. HUMASON,
Secretary.

We are fighting for clean politics. We ask your co-operation.

WELLS' 'OUTLINES OF HISTORY' IS POPULAR

Oakland Reports It Is Rival to History of Queen Victoria at Library

OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 21.—Wells' "Outline of History" continues as the most popular book during the first half of his year, according to the records of the Oakland public library. It was also the most popular book last year.

"Not far behind it came Strachey's "Life of Queen Victoria," which was published a year ago.

Both books are holding their own with the popular "summer fiction" works and other light reading matter indulged in by the lightweight element of the public. At one time 151 persons has reservations in for Wells' history. There were twenty copies available in the library.

One of Judge's prize stories is as follows: An American doughboy, captive to a boche officer, was questioned. "How many of you American soldiers are there on this side of the Atlantic?" queried the German.

"Oh, about 3,000,000 of us."

"It must have taken a lot of ships we knew nothing about to bring all of you over, didn't it?"

"Oh, no; only one ship brought us over."

"Only one! Impossible! And what one was that?"

"The Lusitania."

Truths in Epigram

His only fault is that he has no fault. — Pliny (61-105 A. D.).

First say to yourself what you would be; and then do what you have to do. — Epictetus (60 A. D.).

It is a consolation to the wretched to have companions in misery.—Syrus (42 B. C.).

NOT TOO LATE YET

Senator Johnson's extra visit to this end of the state may have been taken in order that he might have opportunity to answer a set of questions that he had seen fit to ignore. They are useful, competent and courteous questions. To assist the senator in formulating his replies, the questions are reproduced. It is rather depressing to realize the unlikelihood of appreciation, so great is the facility of the gentleman in the art of side-stepping. Here are the questions:

"Senator Hiram Johnson:

(1) Have you abandoned your opposition to the four-power pact, or do you still adhere to your objections with which you sought to embarrass President Harding and the republican administration in your unsuccessful attempt to block passage of the Pacific peace treaty?

(2) Do you stand for rigid enforcement of the Volstead act?

(3) How would you have voted if you had been in your seat in the senate when the Newberry contest was decided?

(4) Why did you fail to vote on the Esch-Cummins bill?

(5) While serving as United States senator from California did you receive a fee of $10,000, or any part of that sum, for defending William Randolph Hearst's International News Service in the United States supreme court on a charge of improperly obtaining news matter from the Associated Press?

(6) While serving as United States senator from California did you absent yourself from the senate in Washington to go to New York and accept a fee of $25,000, or more, or less than that sum, for legal service rendered the democratic city administration of New York?

(7) Was it by your single and unaided efforts that California products received a protective tariff, or did the other United States senator from California and the eleven congressmen from this state have an equal share in obtaining a protective tariff?

(8) Are you still opposed to the Southern Pacific in politics?

(9) If so, why is Frank P. Flint, attorney for the Southern Pacific, when you 'kicked the Southern Pacific out of politics,' now your campaign manager in southern California?

(10) If you are opposed to the Southern Pacific in politics, why is Frank P. Doherty, reputed lobbyist for the railroads in the last session of the legislature, your political representative in Los Angeles?

(11) If you are opposed to the Southern Pacific in politics, why is Leo V. Youngworth, former Southern Pacific 'machine' politician, associated with Messrs. Flint and Doherty in urging your re-election?

(12) You say you are fighting 'the same old gang.' How do you explain so many of 'the same old gang' devotedly trying to re-elect you?

(13) What is your attitude toward a third-party movement?

(14) In 1924, will you support William Randolph Hearst for president?

(15) If Hearst is not a candidate will you accept his support for president?

(16) In consideration of your registration in California as a republican and Mr. Hearst's affliation with the democratic party in New York, what consideration or considerations obtained for you the enthusiastic backing of the Hearst publications in California?

(MRS. FRANK A.) MARY S. GIBSON.

MRS. CHRISTOPHER M. GORDON."

Many Californians are aware of the correct answers to such of these queries as touch the four-power treaty, and the relations of Johnson to Hearst, save in regard to the political understanding between the two. Nevertheless they crave an expression from the senator regarding the entire list. They also would be glad to have him explain his numerous failures to answer roll calls, and the fact that most of the legislation proposed by him died in committee.

The senator himself has asked "what is the issue?" By scanning the questionaire, even casually, he may gain all the information he professes to desire, and considerable more.

Shining out of the situation is the plain truth that the senator does not dare answer the questions. He sees them, he knows their import; he rages mightily, and chooses the familiar role of side-stepper. His fears may be understood. Between the devil and the deep blue sea, doubts assail him. His cause is lost if he declines to commit himself, lost if he does venture to commit himself.

These are tough times for Johnson, for Hearst, and for "the old gang" the senator in the day of his power was fighting, and who now flock to his support.

REPRESENTATIVE LINEBERGER

Representative Lineberger of the Ninth congressdistrict has more than earned the right to be sent back to Washington as his own successor. Throughout his term he has been active on behalf of every Californian interest, has been devoted to the full performance of his duty. He has won and holds the the respect of his associates in the house. He is a republican, and as such, while not governed by a blind partisan zeal, does all in his power to uphold the administration.

Such opposition as there is to Lineberger comes from forces that have no logical right to dominate, since they do not pertain especially to this state, but are national in scope, managed and financed by an organization committed to a single issue, that since adoption of the eighteenth amendment has ceased, in reality, to be an issue at all. Prohibition is a part of the constitution. As such it will remain. Mr. Lineberger believes in its enforcement. He is able in his present position to do more for its enforcement, than if he went to the capital with accomplishment of this purpose his avowed and single object. The one-ideaed congressman, isolated through his proclaimed affiliations, is deprived of influence and standing.

Mr. Lineberger was elected under circumstances that to a weaker man might have been embarrassing. The prejudices aroused at the time he was chosen, were transitory, and now forgotten. He undertook his work with fine spirit, and made an excellent record for his able attention to every duty. Now he comes back modestly to give an accounting of his stewardship. Clearly he is entitled to be continued in office. No reason appears for any other course. To deny him the nomination would be sorry reward for faithful service, and yet a far greater loss to his constituency than to Mr. Lineberger.

The Root of Debauchery

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There is a great sentence of Nietzsche: "The mother of debauchery is not joy, but joblessness."

DR. FRANK CRANE

One whose mind is at all matured cannot enter a jazz palace without a painful sense of pity.

To see all these people, most of them young and full of the adventurous force of life, seeking to satisfy the great soul of a human being with the racket and confusion of inanity, affects one very much as the sight of an insane person picking at his fingers and laughing at the bare walls.

The reason the jazz palace offends is not that it is joyful and irritates the Puritan soul, but that it is joyless and dismays the human soul.

There is so much in the world that is beautiful. This earth is so crowded with inspiration, and the very sky above us is so spread with majesty, that every life should exult in existence.

And to see human beings in a world where the fountains of enthusiasm are over-flowing crowd themselves into a heated room and madly endeavor to find satisfaction in orgies not far removed from the jungle, is pathetic.

The great delusion is that these people do not know what a good time is. It is natural and normal to want to have fun, but when fun is conceived of in forms that are unnatural and abnormal it is tragic.

All up and down society, from the rout at a Fifth avenue palace to the crush at a firemen's ball, there is the same mania for having "a good time," and the same terrible mistake as to the meaning of the word.

"The vice of our public streets," says a recent writer, "has undergone a remarkable change. There is a new race of immoral women. They come from offices and shops. They are young and the glamour of the summit has bewitched them. They desire the life of fashion, the life of indelicate clothes, gilded restaurants, the theater, and the night club. They are not vicious. They have none of the criminal instincts of those women who complain of their competition. Ask them what they want, and they will tell you, "A good time."

That is all. They want to see life. They have looked up to our highest, and in their own small way would copy them.

Where there is no vision the people perish. With no persuasive voice to make them see what life means in all its richness and power, they turn to debauchery for very joylessness.

For they are hungry and "would fain fill their belly with the husks that the swine do eat."

A good phrase that might be written upon the walls of the jazz palace would be that of Alfred Noyes:

The cymbals clash,
And the dancers walk;
With long silk stockings
And arms of chalk,
Butterfly skirts
And white breasts bare;
And shadows of dead men
Watching 'em there.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers)

(Find the error in this article)

He or Him?

A. M. P.: "Kindly tell me through your column which is correct: That is not he; or, That is not him." Answer: The right word is he. If you will consider the verb is as a sign of equality, the pronoun he is like the subject in case. In other words, you would not start the sentence as him is; nor would you complete it as is him.

On or Of?

M. S.: "Will you kindly inform the writer whether the expressions, 'Will some other kind readers please voice their opinions on this matter?' and 'My understanding on this matter' are correct? Is the preposition on used correctly, or is of 'the right word'?" Answer: The Standard Dictionary gives "On is preferable in such expressions as . . . 'to write on a certain subject'." Correct: voice their opinion on this matter. Of is defined by the Standard as follows: ". . . Directed toward or exerted upon, indicating direction of causal agency or action . . ."; as, the massacre of the innocents; the telling of lies; the passing of counterfeits . . ." Correct: my understanding of this matter.

Omitting the Conjunction "That"

R. E. Emerson: "Will you kindly discuss at some time when, if ever, it is correct to omit the conjunction 'that' in introducing a substantive clause, especially after verbs of thinking, feeling, etc.; as, I knew you were coming; I thought he was ill?" Answer: The omission of the subordinate conjunction that is frequent in colloquial speech, and in literature; as, I know he will come; I feel we ought to do this (that being omitted after know and feel). Its omission (which is a matter of style) is dependent on whether the resulting expression is clear and smooth, and on whether the word that is understood.

"A Pair of Twins"

Amelia H. Pavero: "Will you please let me know how many children there are in a 'pair of twins'? Is it correct to say 'a pair of triplets'? Answer: The word pair means two persons or things of a kind in an intimate relationship. The significance of the foregoing phrases is that each of two persons was the parent of twins, or of triplets. The groups, therefore, not being of a kind, cannot be paired as groups. Sets, which means groups, is the right word; as, two sets of twins; two sets of triplets. Furthermore, the word twins means a pair. If you wish to convey the idea of only two children by the first phrase, and three by the second phrase, then the twins and the triplets are sufficient.

THE LISTENING POST

Problems.
The world is full of them.
Necessary as breathing and food and drink.
For the growth and development of human beings.

* * *

Imagine a world of human beings without problems.
Without the necessity for struggle.
A billion and a half of people lying about in shady hammocks.
Twenty-four hours a day.
And imagine the state of mind and body of those people after they had rested fifty years in shady hammocks.

* * *

Problems have always been.
Always are.
And ever will be.
And the notion that they will ever be settled all and forever is a delusion.
The schoolboy has them.
Out of a book.
And for a reason.

* * *

It is not especially important that the schoolboy cross the pons asinorum of geometry.
Just to get on the other side of it.
But it is important that his mind be exercised.
Kept active and alert and capable.

* * *

The mental alertness developed by problems in mathematics will serve sometime somewhere someway usefully.
A flabby mind that cannot solve a problem will be useless in the world.

* * *

Many a young man is running about with a revolver and a mask holding up people, committing crime, and dooming himself to disgrace and sudden death because his mind is incapable of solving the simple problem of himself.
Problems are not to bewail.
Not to be fearful of.
Not to evade.
They are to meet and solve as best we can.
With the best brains and courage we have.

* * *

There are problems in this country.
There are problems in Europe.
There are problems through the world.
Just as there have always been.
The problems of this nation today are not as compelling and vital as those that confronted it in the years before the civil war.

* * *

Neither are they to be compared with the problems that confronted the patriots who founded this nation.
The problems before that of Plymouth Rock.
The problems of colonial hardship and warfare.
The problem of the Constitution.

* * *

But those problems were met and solved by strong men who grew stronger in the struggle with them.
Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton, Lincoln—all grapplers with problems.
All stronger for the battle with problems.

* * *

So today our problems are not to bewail.
Not to grow cynical about.
Not to fear or avoid.
They are to meet and solve as best we can.
And then there will be another crop of problems.
Just as there will always be weeds to clear from a field.

JAMES W. FOLEY.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Trust Thou Thy Love—By John Ruskin (1819-1900)

Trust thou thy Love; if she be proud, is she not sweet?
Trust thou thy Love, if she be mute, is she not pure?
Lay thou thy soul full in her hands, low at her feet;
Fail, Sun and Breath—yet, for thy peace, She shall endure.

NEW NEBULAE AND NOVA DISCOVERED

By ISABEL M. LEWIS, of United States Naval Observatory

Approximately 2000 new nebulae have recently been discovered by Donald H. Menzel on 90 photographs taken with the 24-inch Bruce telescope at the southern station of the Harvard College Observatory at Arequipa, Peru, according to a statement from the Harvard College Observatory.

Of the 800 brightest of these nebulae it is believed that about 35 per cent are spirals which are by far the most numerous of all the varied types of nebulae. Some years ago Prof. Keeler working with Crossley reflector of the Lick Observatory estimated that there were about 120,000 spirals within the reach of this instrument and it is believed that fully five times this number are within reach of the great reflectors of the Mt. Wilson Observatory. The total number of nebulae now recorded and catalogued is about 20,000 and one-fourth of this number have been found at the Harvard Observatory on photographs taken with the Bruce telepscope with exposures of from one to five hours. The station of the Harvard College Observatory at Arequipa was established for the purpose of obtaining photographic surveys of the southern heavens and classifying objects that cannot be observed from northern observatories. Most of the newly discovered spirals lie within 45 degrees of the south pole of the heavens, and so are below the horizon in our latitudes.

The distribution of spiral nebulae in the heavens is most remarkable for they apparently avoid the plane of the Milky Way toward which the majority of all other celestial objects tend to crowd and are receding at high velocities in the directions of its poles. The distances of the spirals are unknown, but they are the most rapidly moving of all celestial objects and it is generally believed that they are at distances of hundreds of thousands if not millions of light years from the earth. Their velocities through space average about 480 miles per second. Their origin and nature is still one of the mysteries of modern astronomy. An analysis of their light show it to be such as would be emitted by a cloud of stars with intermingled nebulosity and spirals viewed edgewise are almost invariably surrounded by a band of dark absorbing matter cutting off the light from the enclosed nebula. There are some excellent reasons for believing that the spirals are systems of stars or "island universes," as the term is, that are at enormous distances from the earth.

In addition to the recent discovery of new nebulae at Arequipa another nova has just been discovered at the same station by Miss Annie J. Cannon in the constellation of Scorpio. Many novae have been discovered by Miss Cannon and Miss Woods on Harvard plates in recent years. Miss Cannon sailed for the Arequipa station this spring to take up the study of photographic plates of the southern heavens that have been taken at this branch of the Harvard College Observatory in Peru.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

BIBLE TEXT FOR CONGRESS

[Kansas City Star]

A congressman from Georgia invites the Gideons to supply senators and representatives with Bibles. Most persons had assumed that the members of congress had been brought up on the Bible and had the book in their homes. But perhaps not. Perhaps that is one thing that is the matter with Washington.

So it may be hoped the Gideons will undertake this work of mercy, with each Bible marked so it will open to Ecclesiastes V:2-3. As the Gideons haven't made a general distribution yet it may be necessary to cite the passage:

"Be not rash with thy mouth and let not thine heart be hasty to utter anything before God; for God is in heaven and thou upon earth; therefore let thy words be few. . . . A fool's voice is known by a multitude of words."

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

It is true that many members of the human race fail to do much thinking. Their mental capacities are extremely limited. Besides this, they have within themselves various contending forces. They are guided by ancestral traits, not wholly admirable. In them center traditions and superstitions. They fail to be impressed by circumstances, not drawing from their surroundings the lessons that would be perceived by a fair intelligence.

HENRY JAMES

Among the ideas that persist is that of the right to dominate their fellows. This may be survival of some ancient tribal instinct, when the longest club decided the question of master and man. Or it may be the result of the long eras of bigotry, the teachings of a false philosophy. Mankind has emerged from ages dark indeed, but the fringes of the old shadow still touch most of its units. They have not emerged very far.

One obtrusive obsession is that which would restrict freedom of thought and of personal action. It defers to all that is old, regardless of the fact that the world is changed, and much that survives from antiquity, belongs to the discard. It takes the form of a desire to censor thought, and expression of thought. It formulates blue laws. It curtails liberty. It fixes a standard of goodness, which may not be good at all, and by statute decrees adherence to its code.

What one set of men fail to enjoy, they taboo. It is not enough that they refrain from the activity that does not appeal to them, but they bid their neighbor to refrain; fix a penalty for disobedience.

Here and there may be observed the thinker. The thinker has accomplished all real progress, working against odds the while.

When there are more thinkers this will be a pleasanter world.

In the Aisne department in France there is a house bearing a tablet setting forth the history of the building. It was erected in 1640, burned in 1814, pillaged in 1815 by Prussians, again in 1816 by Russians, and rebuilt in 1840. It was pillaged by Prussians in 1870 and 1872; pillaged and razed by Prussians from 1914 to 1918, and rebuilt once more in 1922.

One wonders if it still is to be regarded as the same house.

One commentator seems impressed by the theory that the continents travel about, occasionally coming together, and then drifting apart. Scientists point to indications that the east and west coasts of the two principal land bodies, present the appearance of having been broken apart from each other.

There is nothing in this to get scared about. The habits of continents millions of years ago may have been nomadic. In general acceptation, the terrestrial surface was more fluid then, and anchorage less firm. But the continents stopped drifting before the time men were present to take personal note of the circumstances. So far as indicated, the anchorage is quite firm now.

One excellent restriction of building is that forbidding extremely lofty structures, there being in this region no reason for permitting excessive height. Congestion gets bad enough in cities without being specifically encouraged.

Occasionally somebody remarks that buildings in the future will be a mile high, which of course, is nonsense. It is possible that the limit has not been reached yet, but there is every reason to hope that it has.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Some day I am going to gather in a lecture room a few of the bright faced mutts who write advertising and verbally beat them up. Not one in ten knows his business. Maybe the proportion of efficients is increasing—I think it is—but there are still too many who place their dependence on the glittering adjective and the false-face noun. I'm saying this on behalf of the great army of buyers of advertised truck.

"You poor fish," I'll say to those bright-eyed young copy-dealers, "you hopeless word-hounds, you incandescent piefaces, try telling the truth. All these tangled webs of words you try to weave around us get nowhere at all. The advertisements that we remember are those that state the selling points of an article in as clear and forceful language as possible, and still avoid exaggeration."

We—we buyers of goods—ought to organize a sort of a vigilante committee to hang chump advertising writers who try to glitter us into buying. I took a census of my friends this week. I wanted to discover just what sort of ads they remembered and discovered that three sorts of advertising stuck in the public mind, if my friends may be taken to represent the public:

First, the article that is banged at the public wherever the public turns. Just by name. One cannot escape it. The value of that advertising is in constant repetition.

Second, the article that is advertised by a straightforward presentation of its merits. The dealer remembers and buys.

Third, the advertising that is wholly tomfool and wordful. It depends on quirk, quip, or crank. It makes use of silly names or noisy drum-hammering. The advertisement is remembered by the reader because of its folly, but the name of the article advertised isn't.

We all read ads nowadays. But when, with the best intentions in the world, we sit down to inform ourselves about things that we might, could, or should wish to buy, we are dumped into a wet, vague, wordy fog. A loose-lipped ad-writer has been drooling over his typewriter, instead of telling us the things we want to know. We sometimes buy the wrong article because the ad-writer has not done his duty in informing us.

My friend the ad-writer tells me that the trouble lies with the calf-brained advertising managers.

"They have been brought up on words," he says. "They like the feeling of the polysyllables whizzing around. Not until a new generation arrives will a short, simple advertising annal get by the average manager's desk.

FLYING SQUADRON OPENS AT C. OF C.

Fair Sized Audience Attend Opening of Campaign in Glendale

A fair-sized audience gathered at the chamber of commerce auditorium yesterday afternoon to listen to the Flying Squadron speakers. Hon. Frank S. Reagan, of Chicago, formerly a member of the Illinois legislature, gave an illustrated talk on the question of taxation and its relation to the 18th amendment. He refuted the idea that the revenue formerly derived from the liquor traffic fee is at all necessary to pay the soldier bonus and support the government.

He charged that the brewery and distillery interests, largely owned by English and German capitalists, evaded paying taxes, and that large interests now escape taxes. He said that if all paid their just taxes the rate need not be over $1.

The other speaker, Dr. D. Hugh Colvin, gave a stirring address, citing the various activities of the wets to modify the Volstead act by legalizing the sale of wine and beer containing from 2½ to 8 and 10 per cent of alcohol. Also by gaining control of congress, to the end that appropriations be withheld and the enforcement of the law hampered. He made a strong plea for a united effort to carry the Wright bill to success this fall.

James H. Woertendyke will speak at the same place on Monday, at 3 and 8 p. m.

The speakers for Tuesday, 3 and 8 p. m., will be Oliver W. Stewart, president of the organization, and Rev. Norma C. Brown, formerly chaplain of the Illinois legislature.

TRACTOR SHOW TO BE PART OF BIG EXHIBITION

Pageant of Progress to Have National Exposition of Machines

The Fordson industrial tractor show, which has been held in the principal cities of the United States since early in May, is scheduled to make its initial appearance on the Pacific coast during the Pageant of Progress at Exposition park, Los Angeles, August 26 to September 9, according to word just received by Jesse E. Smith, local Ford, Fordson and Lincoln dealer.

"This exposition, which is educational in nature and devoted to demonstrating the industrial as well as the agricultural possibilities of the tractor in everyday use, follows exactly the lines of the great exposition just closed in Chicago, where the Fordson industrial exhibit was the outstanding feature of the immense Pageant of Progress program, covering a period of two weeks," says Mr. Smith.

"Elaborate preparations have been made for the housing of this exhibit, which will include some 50 displays of industrial and agricultural uses of the Fordson tractor. An immense space has been reserved in Exposition park, adjacent to the stadium,

FRISK SQUIRREL CALLS FOR HELP

As Tad Coon started after the tail-feathers of the little Spanish bird who had just started out to call the dogs, he began to wish he hadn't been in quite such a hurry to send for them. Whisper one word to a bird, and the whole world hears of it. Specially if it's something you don't want talked about. And he didn't want folks asking any questions before he knew exactly what he had to say. Nor until he got good and ready.

"Oh, well," he sighed. "I didn't tell that flutterwing much—or Bob White's wife either. I won't even tell Stripes Skunk. I'll just show him what I've found and let him say what he thinks about it."

"Stripes is on the wing," cheeped the quail, as she drifted down, soft as thistledown on the breeze. Then she trotted back to her eggs.

But she'd forgotten to warn Stripes Skunk to be still. He was squealing as shrill as a policeman's whistle, wondering why in the Wide Woods that coon didn't answer him. "Hello, Fluff-tail! What you got there?" he exclaimed in surprise when he came to where Frisk was crouched on his stone, still as a hoptoad waiting for a fly to light on him. Frisk's whiskers twitched, but he wouldn't let out a word. By now Stripes could see Tad over the edge of the bank of Dr. Muskrat's Pond. He was standing up like a bear on his little bow legs and waving frantically.

Wasn't Stripes puzzled then? "What's this?" thought he. "Everybody struck dumb? When that coon wags his paw instead of his tongue, something must be the matter with him. Wonder what it is?"

Then he had to laugh. For Tad's jaws were gripped shut till his cheeks bulged out behind them, and his eyebrows were twitched into a frown. "Ssh!" he hissed, through his back teeth.

"What's all the mystery?" giggled Stripes under his breath, with his nose to Tad's ear. "You look like you'd been eating a stale egg. Does it smell as bad as all that?"

Tad nodded solemnly. "Try it and see," he mumbled out of the nearest corner of his mouth. With a heavy frown he clawed the stone from Malty Kitten's old hole. Stripes gave a sniff. Then he rolled his eyes till they showed white all around them.

"It's mink!" he gasped.

"Ssh" hissed the coon. "Don't be so noisy about it."

"Is she in there now?" Stripes asked.

"I don't know for certain sure." The words were still on Tad's lips when he heard Frisk's panicky shriek.

"Twick, twick, Uncle Tad! She's here, and she's a-digging!" Before he had finished Tad was already up the bank.

"She's there! Stripes shove back that stone. Watch it!" he squealed.

WRIGHT SECURES ROAD MONEY

In the interests of good roads for the Fifth district, supervisor Wright has had the board of supervisors set aside the sum of $50,000 to assist in building and maintaining canyon and mountain roads in this district. This sum is in addition to the regular fund provided by the district tax levy for roads.

The entire county is becoming more and more interested in good roads leading to mountain resorts and camping retreats, a considerable number of which are in Supervisor Wright's district.

An examiner was putting a young medical student through his paces.

"Supposing," he began, "there was a gunpowder explosion and a man was blown into the air. You, as the nearest doctor, being called in, what would you do?"

"Wait for him to come down," was the prompt reply.

The examiner snorted angrily and then barked:

"If I raised my foot and gave you a kick, what muscles would be brought into play?"

With a steely light in his eyes the young man retorted: "The flexible and extensive muscles of my right arm."

LOS ANGELES BEST BUSINESS CENTER OF COAST

Internal Revenue Collector Says Conditions Here Flourishing

Announcing his candidacy for a seat on the board of equalization for the Fourth district, Sidney S. Gilhuly, real estate and insurance man of Glendale, offers his past record for the consideration of voters of this district.

The Fourth district comprises 24 Southern California counties extending south from the borders of San Francisco. There is no candidate to this post on the Democratic ticket. The primary election on August 29 will decide who is to be the next member of the board from this district. The only opponent is H. G. Cattell of Pasadena who is now holding the office under an appointment from Gov. William D. Stephens. He was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Philip D. Wilson, who was elected in 1918.

Mr. Gilhuly has lived in Los Angeles county for the past 10 years and has been a resident of Glendale for five years. His home is at 342 El Bonito avenue.

He was connected with the Santa Fe railroad, having offices in Los Angeles until last fall, when he resigned to enter the real estate and insurance business in this city. His office is at 1257 South Central avenue.

Mr. Gilhuly is a member of the Masonic lodge of this city, B. P. O. E. No. 1289, the chamber of commerce and the Young Men's Republican league of Los Angeles. Ever since his advent to the business life of Glendale he has been active in civic affairs. He has already been pledged the support of many of Glendale's leading business men in his race for a seat on the board. He is also endorsed by many of the leading business men of Los Angeles.

The hour set for the Edgar A. Guest anniversary party to be held in the auditorium of the Los Angeles Express next Monday afternoon, is 2:30 o'clock.

A fine program has been arranged by Mrs. Louise Kingsley, in which several Glendalians will participate. Miss Elizabeth Mottern will sing, and Mrs. J. C. Wilcox will read Guest poems and give reminiscences of the life of the poet, who was her schoolmate. It is expected that Mr. Guest, who is at his home in Detroit, will send a message to the group which will perfect the organization of the Edgar A. Guest Clippers' club. All lovers of Mr. Guest's poems are invited to attend.

HABITS AND HABITS

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)

Two men met after a theatrical performance both had attended.

"How did you like the play?" was the greeting of one.

"First rate," came the prompt response. "It may not have much of a run, but I found it interesting. And you?"

"It bored me utterly. I haven't had such a dull evening in a long time. How it ever reached the stage I can no more imagine than I can imagine what you saw in it to like."

Then, after a meditative pause:

"But I might have known you'd see something good in it. You contrive to see something good in most everything. That's a habit of yours."

Most certainly it was not a habit of the speaker's. His habit, rather, was to search out weak spots, to carp, to criticize, unmercifully to detect and call attention to faults and flaws.

And possibly because this was his habit, life had not been over-kind to him.

At 50 he was an embittered, disappointed man. Whereas the man of the opposite habit—the habit of seeing something good in everything—had to his credit a degree of business success, of creative accomplishment, which compelled the other's grudging admiration.

If only that other, years before, had recognized the possibility that he, too, might achieve much if he would consistently look for the good. If only he had pondered and taken to heart the words of a latter-day philosopher of keen insight and true vision:

"You can constantly find in others something good to praise and indorse. Look for the best, the bright, the beautiful all about you.

"Make your thought constructive and progressive. The habit of generous and appreciative praise of others will give you a mental uplift."

Aye, and also it will send the blood coursing more swiftly through your veins. It will help to keep your blood free from toxins and impurities. It will react to energize your whole organism, to raise your vital powers. Persistently generous thoughts have a dynamic influence far-reaching in ultimate effect.

Persistently unkind thoughts, on the contrary, persistently critical and caustic thoughts, shrivel the personality and slow down the processes of life. Inevitably they do far more harm to those who entertain them than to those against whom they are entertained and uttered.

In time they impair the efficiency, perhaps impair it to a vanishing point. They may even impair health itself. If it is a truism that when a man's health is poor he is the more likely to be cynically minded, it is equally true that the cynically minded man is likely to have poor health.

Remember this for your own profit. Try to make the habit of looking for the good your habit. It is a habit that will advantage you in many ways.

'THE WOMAN HE MARRIED' AT THE T. D. & L.

First National Film Continued Today at Local Theatre

"The Woman He Married," a First National attraction which opened a two-day engagement at the T. D. & L. Theatre yesterday, presents Anita Stewart as the star of a society drama that is not too ultra-fashionable to be human. Unfortunately, but frequently, society as the screen pictures it is a collection of better-than-before who specialize in sti ffnecks and liveried butlers and are absolutely innocent of a sense of humor.

This production is refreshingly free from that atmosphere, and its characters, being just regular people, are not only interesting in themselves, but, by their sincerity and ability, they add greatly to the fascination and suspense that naturally go with a well built story.

Fred Niblo, the director of the picture, has evidently not forgotten the little stage tricks and effects that help to make a Broadway success. His deft handling of the story is evident throughout the action. The plot is not a heavy one—in fact, it all centers about one startling scene—but it develops so smothly and with such a directness of purpose that there is not one dull moment in the whole film. In other words, it tells its story without any tiresome beating of the bush or struggling through non-essential details, all of which is very pleasing to one who pays for legitimate entertainment.

It is apparent from the well-appointed sets and beautiful photography that no effort was spared in the making of the production. The cast, in keeping with the general excellence of the picture, includes in support of Miss Stewart, Darrell Foss, Donald MacDonald, Shannon Day, William Conklin, Charlotte Pierce, Charles Belcher, and Frank Tokunaga. Bess Meredyth wrote the scenario.

A resolute man is often found to be remarkably shy on resolutions.

Mabel was a "new woman."

She said to Myrtle one afternoon:

"We'll make an evening of it. Come with me to the Ratz, and we'll have a fellowship dinner."

"A fellowship dinner? What's that?" said Myrtle.

"Why," said Mabel, "you pay for mine, and I'll pay for yours."

An American woman, resident in Madrid, being a leader in the S. P. C. A., was soliciting subscriptions in Madrid. "What will you give, sir?" she asked a Spanish grandee.

"Oh, I'll do better than to make a gift," he said, graciously. "I'll get up a bullfight for the benefit of your society."

'GIL' OF CITY SEEKS ELECTION

Sidney S. Gilhuly of Glendale Candidate for State Board

Internal revenue collections on the Pacific coast for the fiscal year, which ended July 31, 1921, prove that business conditions in Los Angeles lead the entire west coast, according to Collector of Internal Revenue Rex B. Goodcell.

While definite figures are now available for California, Oregon, Washington and Alaska only, it is believed that the showing made by the Los Angeles district will not be passed by any other section of the United States.

"In fact, it proves that Los Angeles is right now the center of the country's prosperity," declared Collector Goodcell last night.

Owing to general depression following the cessation of war activities, internal revenue collections for 1922, as compared with 1921, show a tremendous decrease all over the country. While the San Francisco, Portland and Seattle districts have developed substantial losses running around 34 per cent, the Los Angeles district occupies the banner position with a nominal decrease of only 12 per cent, due in most part to the fact certain war taxes have been annulled.

Shrinkage in collections for 1922 as compared with 1921 is as follows:

San Francisco ...35.2 per cent
Seattle ..... 34.2 per cent
Portland ..... 33.8 per cent
Los Angeles ...: 12.1 per cent

"The remarkable showing made by the Los Angeles district," said Collector Goodcell, "indicates that Los Angeles has escaped the general business depression. Southern California had little share in war profits and consequently suffered less when abnormal war activities ceased. It points to a steady flow of wealth into Southern California and an even steadier prosperity.

"Internal revenue tax collections constitute an infallible business barometer and when business goes down, tax collections follow. The banner showing made by Los Angeles indicates that this section possesses an unusually large percentage of citizens with steady incomes, that the population is increasing and industrial activities are on the upgrade.

"While the Los Angeles office has been organized on strictly business principles, with experts heading each tax unit, we could not have collected $50,000,000 in taxes if business conditions were not absolutely right.

"Take the tax on admissions to theaters. While other districts have shown big losses, the Los Angeles collections virtually hold their own. More than $2,500,000 in admission taxes was paid by theater-goers, indicating that approximately 30,000,000 persons visited theaters.

"Since 1920 we have added 41,603 taxpayers to the rolls. That means something."

YELLOW MEN AND GOLD AT THE GLENDALE

Stirring Tale of Adventure on Land and Sea

Those who love adventures tories, thrilling pursuits on land and on sea, fights between strong men, enmities between women, sacrifices on the altar of affection, in their screen entertainment, cannot afford to miss the latest Goldwyn picture, "Yellow Men and Gold," by Gouverneur Morris. This photo-drama is now being shown at the Glendale theater, where it will remain until Tuesday night.

Interest never lags in this picture. Events happen too quickly and too vigorously to let the blood cool. Scarcely has the hero or the heroine overcome the obstacle of one melodramatic situation when he or she is confronted with another. It is a conflict between relentless villains and doughty heroes, a homeric struggle that takes many forms and ranges over a quarter of the earth's surface.

Helene Chadwick, Rosemary Theby, Richard Dix, Richard Tucker and Henry Barrows give excellent performances in the leading roles. The entire cast is full of the vigor that this Gouverneur Morris tale demands. "Yellow Men and Gold" was directed by Irvin Willat. It was his first Goldwyn picture.

Stories of Famous Cases

By Detective NICK HARRIS

THE POLICEMAN'S TRYST

In Three Parts—Part 3

After some difficulty he finally located the garage of the De Courney mansion. It was situated at the end of a long graveled drive and stood forth dark and uninviting. A sudden fear clutched at the heart of Policeman No. 111. Suppose she had gone * * * And he had no palliative, the box of chocolates long since having fallen by the wayside when he locked up the two boulevard combatants It was an inauspicious beginning

He tried the handle of the garage door It yielded softly Policeman No. 111 smiled. She was waiting for him after all. She had left the door open. Softly he stepped inside. A stairway at the right led to the upper floor. Carefully guided by his flash lamp he stepped over the tools that lay scattered on the floor, made for the stairway and creaked upward. At the top, another door led to an inner compartment. This too was unlocked and with his heart thumping with excitement and romance, Policeman No. 111 pushed it wide and stepped inside.

There was a single window in the room—a bedroom, apparently. The light from a corner arc fingered the sill of the window, spread across a bed in the corner of the room, and brought out the figures on the carpet, underfoot. On the bed, one arm flung across the coverlet, a dark braid drooped carelessly over the pillow, lay a still figure. In the absolute silence Policeman No. 111 could hear a rythmic breathing * * * Her room!

He thrilled at the thought. It was the first time he had ever been in a girl's bedroom * * * It was something sacred to him * * * like a shrine. He held his breath, wonderingly * * * Should he step back into the hallway and knock, or should he stay where he was and call aloud. * * * She had grown tired of waiting for him * * *

Suddenly it occurred to him that he was in somewhat of a predicament. If he startled her and she began to scream and aroused the household, he would be in rather a mess. And Marie, how about her? On the other hand, he was already in her room. If he attempted to leave, she might hear him go out and scream, thinking him a burglar, and again the same thing would ensue.

All of Policeman No. 111's professional training came to his rescue as he turned over plan after plan in his mind, only to discard it instantly as impractical. He was in and he could not get out, and he could not stand there all night * * *

In moments of stress, great thoughts occur. One such hit Policeman No. 111 behind the ear with the force of one of "Babe Ruth's" homers starting for the Rio Grande. Somewhere, when he was a child he had read a story—a story of a princess and a prince—a prince who awakened his lady love in a way that had not startled her. Standing alone in the dark, Policeman 111 blushed a hot crimson at the suggestion, but he clung to it nevertheless. He would kiss her—Marie * * *

His decision made, Policeman No. 111 with a fluttering solar plexus tiptoed softly to the bedside of the sleeping figure. Her face was in the dark, but a faint, delicate perfume that was strangely familiar struck upon his nostrils and intoxicated him. He felt himself engulfed in a cave of romance, or intrigue, of dizzy sensation. It was the biggest adventure of his life * * * his greatest moment.

Slowly, cautiously, he leaned down and pressed a chaste lover's kiss upon the dainty lips of * * *

"Hey—washa malla, washa malla. Gee nom—quock lui bong goy—washa malla you * * *!"

Policeman No. 111 sprang back into the shadows as an unmistakable oriental figure rose suddenly from the bed at the impress of the kiss, and, with its cue flying in the air, burst into Chinese imprecations and shrieks of terror.

Only for an instant did he stare at the apparition, and then, without a moment's hesitation, he turned and fled—out into the hallway, down the garage stairs and along the graveled drive—while the Chinese cook, for such it was, made the night hideous with his startled jargon.

Somewhere near dawn, Policeman No. 111 turned his steps wearily up to the front entrance of Mrs. Riordan's select boarding house and flung himself down on the bed. He was tired, spent, irritated, exhausted, humiliated—a lot of things. He did not know that Marie's mistress had been taken ill and Marie had been obliged to stay in the house that night and that the Chinese cook had taken advantage of her absence to "steal" a sleep in a sacred place. All that impressed Policeman No. 111 was that he had given his maiden kiss to an oriental * * * Faugh!

At assembly the following morning, the precinct captain instructed the various patrolmen to be on the lookout for a man capable of wearing a new Stetson hat, size seven and one-half, who had attempted to rob the De Courney home. The burglar had left his hat behind, after he had been frightened away by the Chinese cook, the captain said.

Policeman No. 111 followed the captain's outstretched finger. There on the "exhibit" board in the assembly room, hung his new $12 Stetson hat * * *

Of course there is a finish to this story. Marie and Policeman No. 111 had it out the next morning. Marie explained about her mistress' illness and she was so "ver" sorry she had missed keeping the appointment, and Policeman No. 111 bethought himself of the iceman and the taxi driver, and he was equally sorry that he had been unable to keep the appointment, and so they made another and much more satisfactory "date" which led to others. And in the course of time, ad lib, Policeman No. 111 kissed Marie.

Marie, the little devil, smiled up at him from under the shadow of his shoulder, and asked him the question Mother Eve asked Old Man Adam back in the Garden of Eden.

"Mon Gen," she purred, "deed you ever kiss zee girl before?"

Policeman No. 111 blushed unseen in the dark and snuggled Marie closer into his grasp.

"No," he said, "I didn't." Then he choked a bit. "I kissed a Chink once," he confessed.

Down in police headquarters, a dusty Stetson hat, size seven and a half, still hangs on a nail in the property clerk's room—unclaimed.

OREGON BOOTLEG BATTLE NOW ON

So Reports Commander of Aeroplane Prohibition Enforcement

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 19.—This pre-national-prohibition-state is now conducting the most successful moonshine war in its history, according to Dr. J. A. Linville, state prohibition director. United States army planes flying daily from Eugene and patrolling forests of the state to prevent destruction by fire, are serving a two-fold purpose.

They detect forest fires, and they locate moonshiners' cabins. Smoke does the trick in both cases.

Moonshiners, who are of a retiring and modest disposition, ex-officio, so to speak, seek the most isolated and inaccessible spots in the state to pursue their nefarious and law-breaking work. Heretofore stills so located have been difficult to locate. They simmered and smoked, merrily condensing far from the maddening crowd's ignoble strife, and turned out mule-taming stuff by the hogshead.

But with the planes stuttering overhead things are not what they have been. The observer sees smoke. It may be just a curling wisp, or it may be a funnel denoting a fire of considerable size. The former may be a still, and the latter is certainly burning timber. Both are reported; the location and the size of the fire estimated by the airman. Officers, either peace, prohibition, state, county, or what-not, or forest rangers, immediately investigate. If the smoke comes from a forest blaze it is put out; if the smoke comes from a still, said still is kicked down the mountainside and its tenders are put in.

It's a merry game, with the bootleggers playing the losing end.

It keeps a man busy these days thinking and scheming how to avoid stepping on the rugs that his wife has placed on the floor to be looked at.

BROOKS TELLS OF SPIRITUAL LIFE IN REBIRTH

Addresses Men's Bible Class at th eCity Hall Yesterday

Keith L. Brooks discussed the entrance into spiritual life through regeneration of the individual, at the Presbyterian men's Bible class in the city hall, yesterday. He said in part:

"We would search in vain for any such clear, comprehensive development of the subject of salvation as we have in the chird chapter of John's gospel. We see in this chapter the three persons of the Godhead working together for the redemption of man—the Father giving His Son, the Son dying for us, the Holy Spirit regenerating the individual.

"Nicodemus, one of the great teachers of Israel, comes to Jesus by night and pays Him a great compliment as to His teaching ability and His miracles. He has no conscious need of Christ's salvation; he merely states a conclusion. It is just as possible today to intellectually acknowledge Christ as a great teacher and a God-sent man, and yet have no sense of need of His salvation. Jesus immediately says to Nicodemus, 'You need to be born again' (or('born from above,' as the revised version reads). Nicodemus needs something more than a teacher—he needs a life giver. His conception is inadequate. Christ's entire discourse in this chapter is to bring Nicodemus down to see himself as a sinner, and when he has seen that, he is pointed to the cross.

"'Ye must be born again.' Nowhere is all the Bible is a single statement put so strongly, or so emphatically repeated. This teacher of Israel, with all his attainments, knowledge and virtue, comes short in God's estimate and requires a radical change in his nature—a new nature from above. This new nature is not the repairing of the old nature, but the infusion of a new. In the natural birth a germ is infused, and the 'new birth' is the implanting of a supernatural life, a partaking of the divine nature through the Holy Spirit. Fallen man has a combination of soul and body. Spiritually he is dead in trespasses and sins. He is no longer the trinity he was in the beginning. The Holy Spirit as the third element in man is gone, but by the new birth the spirit of man is renewed.

"This chapter gives us three strong reasons why the new birth is necessary. 'That which is born of the flesh is flesh.' Man is an unspiritual creature. He may be religious at times, but he is not spiritual. He has a corrupt nature. Some have offended against the laws of morality more than others, yet all are alike by nature—unregenerate. Unregenerate people may be very remarkable. Education, culture, refinement, social and political improvements all leave man's spiritual condition untouched.

"Furthermore, the character of heaven demands a new birth. Heaven is a spiritual place for a spiritual people. 'Except a man be born of the Spirit he cannot enter the kingdom of heaven.' Man to be happy must be in correspondence with his surroundings. Unsaved men, though moral men, cannot stand the atmosphere of a prayer meeting, nor relish spiritual discourse. They cannot endure the praises of God, and the things of the Spirit are foolishness to them. They are out of their element. If they could get into heaven in their unregenerate state, heaven would be hell to them.

"The third reason is that Christ insists upon it. He has put the ultimatum. There is no use trying to get into heaven some other way when God says no.

"How can a man be born again? Jesus answers Nicodemus' question clearly: 'God so loved the world (the mightiest motive) that He gave His only begotten Son (the grandest gift) that whoeoever (the widest welcome) believeth on Him (the easiest escape) should not perish (divine deliverance) but have everlasting life (priceless possession).' Why are men lost? The 18th verse tells us: 'Because they have not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God.' So long as a man rejects the finished work of Christ, he is in a state of condemnation, the wrath of God hangs over his head as by a slender thread. 'He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life, and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life but the wrath of God abideth on him.'"

WRIGHT BELIEVES IN CUTTING TAPE

Supervisor Henry W. Wright, who is a candidate for re-election in the Fifth district, of which Glendale is a part, believes in cutting all unnecessary "red tape" in flood control matters when private property is in jeopardy. During the floods of last winter, when Verdugo wash threatened to do untold damage in and around Glendale, Supervisor Wright urged and secured an appropriation of several thousand dollars immediately available to the city of Glendale, and under the able direction and cooperation of the Glendale city administration, the breach was repaired and made safe, thereby avoiding a disastrous flood damage. The Glendale city trustees and chamber of commerce publicly expressed their appreciation in appropriate resolutions.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

THE CITIZEN

JAMES W. FOLEY

He said he had a right to cross the street,
As much a right as any one in town;
He said with quite a lot of force and heat
No motorist would dare to run him down.
The old flag guaranteed his home and hearth
And to his liberties he had been born,
He did not have to jump clear off the earth
Because some motor driver blew his horn.

He said he did not have to dodge and jump
Because somebody honked and tooted loud,
He was a free born citizen, no chump,
Like nine men out of ten in every crowd.
The law gave him the right to go his way
Secure from harm or hurt from sun to sun,
And he would cross the street ten times a day
No tooting motorist could make him run.

And so he stood exactly on his right
To cross the street and never dodge or jump,
He was a citizen and knew no fright,
He was no craven, fearful, dodging chump.
But one day some rash driver ran him down,
And though the constitution grave men read,
That guaranteed his life there in the town,
The coroner declared that he was dead.

Babson's Letter

BABSON SEES END OF LABOR DISTURBANCES

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Aug. 19.—In view of the newspaper space recently taken by the coal strike, railroad strike, and certain textile strikes, we are prone to think that strikes are very general at the present time. Roger W. Babson, however, refutes this opinion in a statement issued today as follows:

"As a matter of fact, we have very few strikes at the present time. Ever since the war the strike curve has been below the point which was then called 'normal.' The fact that we have had three strikes of large dimensions blinds us to this basic truth. Two of these strikes, the coal strike and the rail shopmen's strike, are in industries which have not been deflated, so far as war-time wages go. The other, the cotton textile strike, has been partially deflated and the trouble is about going the rest of the distance. The difficulties in these three industries are then cases of belated hostilities.

"For the most part labor is not striking, wages are being gradually let down to lower levels and the disposition of men is to keep at work. There is always a rise in the strike curve during the summer. We are having that rise now. Nevertheless, we are not having the number or the wide distribution of strikes which we had last year or at any time since 1915. We will not have a repetition of those conditions this year. The strike curve is nearer normal than almost anything else in industry.

"As to the future, the answer is to be looked for in conditions. What made the tremendous wave of strikes which marked the years 1915 to 1920? The simple fact that there were more jobs than men; that the cost of living was going up; that labor was in a position to force the issue. No such prospect is in view for the years right ahead. Therefore, we need not look for a repetition of the strike conditions of the war days. Those days are passed. Nevertheless, we are going to have strikes. There are going to be a good many of them. They are going to be called for reasons other than the ones that backed the strikes of war time. Then men went on strike for more pay. They were courageous, confident, buoyant. They were sure of success. They were seldom disappointed. In the future just ahead, they are going to strike against wage cuts, against attempts to rule out the unions. They are not going to be as successful as they were in the war-time strikes.

"In consequence of this the real question of the next few years is as to the frame of mind which labor is going to have. In contrast with the buoyant confidence of the war years, labor is now going to be sullen, resentful, revengeful. What they do not gain in open victories, they are going to be disposed to accomplish by indirect means. A man who cannot get his pay raised can stall on the job. He can get the best of his boss by all kinds of nasty tricks in the factory. These are short-sighted policies. In the longrun they work to the disadvantage of labor. Still, they are the usual recourse of labor when it is met by obstacles that do not yield

"Right here is the problem of the employer for the next few years. How shall he meet the new temper of labor? In my opinion that ugly temper must be met by open dealing, by setting before labor the facts under which business is done and by admitting labor progressively concern labor. That is to say: ment of the elements of the industrial relation which most directly concern labor. That is to say the time to develop personnel departments, set up personnel deorganize shop committees and all of the rest of the things that belong to this class is, not when labor is in the saddle and holds a gun at the employer's head, but when the employer himself is in the saddle and is in the position to dictate terms.

"The employer does not have to take this reasonable course, if he does not want to. He can use these next years to pile up trouble for himself and his successors in days to come. If, however, the employer is wise, he will take advantage of his position to set up the best kind of machinery, with which to defend himself and his industry. It is not a question of strikes in the immediate future. It will be a question of sabotage. Sabotage, however, is worse than strikes. It demands its own treatment.

"In view of these conditions in vestors should give more thought to the labor policies of the companies in which they purchase securities. An examination of corportation earnings shows that the labor policy is the greatest determining factor between profit and loss during normal times. This especially applies to various concerns in the same line of industry. They all pay approximately the same price for raw materials; they all have practically the same hours of work, but one company succeeds and the other fails. Statistics show that the difference is very largely due to their labor and financial policies. Therefore, conservative investors will seek securities of companies which have a broad-minded labor policy, and which companies are now developing plans which will be of use when the next period of prosperity comes. Ice cannot be gathered in the summer, but must be put up in the winter when it is not needed. The same principle applies to labor. Labor troubles are very difficult to settle when they occur. Wise manufacturers prepare, during such times as these, preventive measures so that labor troubles will not occur when times are good."

General business is holding its own according to the index of the Babsonchart. It shows activity today at 7 per cent below normal as compared with 9 per cent last week and minus 18 per cent a year ago.

COWPUNCHERS OF FILMS TO BE AT VENTURA

All the Rough Riders of the Silver Sheet to Be at Show

The cowboy stars of filmdom, including Tom Mix, "Hoot" Gibson, "Buck" Jones, Art Acord and other equally well-known buckaroo-actors are to be invited to act as honorary judges of rodeo events, in connection with the 1922 Ventura county fair, to be held at Seaside park, Ventura, October 4 to 8, inclusive. The rodeo, under the supervision of "Bob" Anderson, is to be one of the big features of the "million dollar exposition," and those in charge of this event deemed it fitting to invite the popular heroes of the screen to officiate as judges.

Who are to be the lucky bride and groom at the 1922 Ventura county fair? This is the burning question which confronts the officials of Ventura's "million dollar exposition." Recently the fair committee let it be known that they would reward any couple willing to be married in public, during the fair, with sufficient presents to start them up in housekeeping, and as a result of this announcement applications from would-be brides and grooms will undoubtedly soon be pouring in from all counties in Southern California. As the fair officials do not feel that they can afford to establish all of the applicants in homes, they are confronted with the task of selecting a single couple to be the principals at the public wedding. Furniture, groceries, etc., will be showered upon the lucky newlyweds.

"The greatest array of exhibits ever displayed in Ventura county!" This is the manner in which the officials of the 1922 Ventura county fair describe their annual exposition. Everything that is grown, raised or manufactured in Ventura county will be represented by an exhibit.

Anchor chains, heretofore made from wrought iron by hand, can be cast in their entirety from steel by a new process.

GREATER THINGS OF OUR DAY ARE TOLD

Rev. C. M. Crist Preaches From John 14:12 at First Methodist

Preaching from John 14:12, the Rev. Dr. Crist spoke yesterday at the First Methodist church of the "Greater Things of Our Day." He said in part:

"God's gracious ability plus the prayer and faith of men are working the modern miracle. Nothing Jesus ever did, other than the atonement, was so great but that greater things are possible in our day. 'Greater works than these shall he do, because I go unto the Father, and whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do."

"It would seem that Jesus wrought out the divine side of salvation by human help, that is, through a human body and by the help of men. To us is given the task of working out the human side by divine help. So, in either case, it is God with man working to the one supreme end. No one having this conception can be other than optimistic. Truth may progress slowly, but it progresses surely. As surely as Christ did His part which culminated in the climbing of Calvary, so the world, through the various steps of Christian civilization, is climbing its Calvary. It is a long encline, but it is on toward the top of a high hill.

"The logic that forces this conception is irresistible. God is here where we live, and is here to help. The history of civilization is the story of man's pressing on toward the light, overcoming the opposing forces of darkness.

"When Jesus taught His disciples the Lord's prayer, and in it included the petition, 'Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven,' He knew what He was teaching. It was God putting His own thought into the heart of humanity.

"The assent up the hill of progress is beset by many obstacles, but Gethsemane experiences must not upset the faith of the church. We are not surprised that Jesus took with Him Peter, James and John. He needed the spur of human sympathy. But His victory was assured when He said, 'Nevertheless, Thy will, not mine, be done.' This is the victory of civilization.

"The modern miracle is not wrought by a bolt out of a clear sky. It is not a voice from Heaven; it is the voice of God through men. This voice speaks not so much through the extraordinary as through the ordinary. Occasionally God calls a man to do the spectacular thing, but most of life is worked out in the 'humdrum' experiences. But every little thing is big, if there is back of it a big purpose. It is a greater thing to be a member of an organization to save men, than to have the miraculous power to say, 'Thy sins be forgiven thee.' It is a greater thing to help in the support of medical missions than to be able to say, 'Take up thy bed and walk.' It is a greater thing to enter constructively into a city's life than to help a lost boy back to morality. Too often our energies are spent in trying to reclaim instead of prevent. The greater things of the Kingdom are always constructive."

CHARLES C. MOORE AS OLIVE GROWER

Many Sided Activities of Candidate Opposing Hiram Johnson

Charles C. Moore, candidate for the republican nomination for United States senator at the primaries, is not only one of the west's biggest and ablest business men and engineers, but he is the largest olive grower in the state, and understands every phase of this important California industry, from the care of the tree to the production and marketing of ripe olives and olive oil.

Mr. Moore's extensive olive holdings lie close to Los Angeles, in the heart of Southern California. He is the principal owner, and directs the production and marketing of the crop from 1600 acres of bearing trees—400 acres at Rialto, and 1200 acres at Sylmar, in the San Fernando valley, where 1000 tons of ripe olives are annually preserved and 1500 tons crushed for olive oil. The products of the Sylmar Packing corporation, principally owned and directed by Charles C. Moore, are nationally known. The selling organization of the corporation centers in California, and radiates to all portions of the United States.

In the olive industry alone Mr. Moore has in his employ more than 150 men and women in the factory, and over 300 employes on the ranches during the picking, packing and crushing seasons.

Combined with this vast olive industry, the largest of its kind in the United States, if not in the world, is that of preserving figs and pimientos, and the planting and growing of large acreages of these commodities.

On the lands owned individually by Mr. Moore, or by the company he controls, the scope of these industries are constantly being extended, with the result that more men and women are being employed year by year in this labor, and supporters of Mr. Moore point out that his first-hand knowledge of these important California industries, together with his wide business experience, fit him far better for the high post to which he aspires than most men who are willing to serve their state and country as United States senator.

MISSOURI FOLKS IN NEW QUARTERS

The Missouri society of Los Angeles county, will hereafter meet on the second Tuesday of each month, in the Disabled Veterans' hall, 246 South Hill street. This hall has been recently overhauled and contains, besides an excellent dance floor, ladies' and gentlemen's lounging rooms, card rooms, and is reached by means of newly installed electric elevators.

At the next meeting, Tuesday, Sept. 12, President Dr. Elwin Witt Ames has arranged an exceptionally fine entertainment which will be followed by dancing.

During the winter months the Missourians will probably hold meetings every two weeks.
